MESSAGE FROM THE PRESIDENT

Dear PennYo family, friends, and alum,

What a big year for PennYo! Not only are we sending off our six beloved seniors, we are also celebrating PennYo's 20th birthday! Over the years, PennYo has never failed to provide us with a home away from home. Our strong friendships and support system, endless inside jokes, and love for each other is something I treasure immensely. We are an a cappella group, but we are 朋友s (friends) before anything else :)

A massive thank you to our family and friends. Your endless support in the form of shoutouts, words of encouragement, and coming to our concerts is what keeps us going. We are all so excited to share our music with you and give you an unforgettable night filled with a cappella, good vibes, and lots of love.

I want to express my gratitude to my fellow board members, who have dedicated countless hours of their time to make this show possible. Between late night texts about show forms, figuring out microphones, and adjusting to constantly changing COVID policies, we've had our fair share of obstacles, but through it all, you have all shown resilience and dedication to everything we do. I am also so grateful to our seniors who have imparted their wisdom and concert experience on me throughout the entire process. Finally, I want to recognise our newest cohort of Yos, who are so full of life and will do a wonderful job continuing the PennYo legacy.

It is an honour to serve as PennYo's president. To my fellow Yos, I am in awe of your talent and energy, and I am so proud of all of our hard work. Thank you for being a part of the beautiful family that we have created. I love you all!

Without further ado, enjoy PennYo's Spring 2022 show: Yo Fu Panda!

One love yo love,
Natalie

THANK YOU

for coming to PennYo A Cappella's Spring 2022 concert, Yo Fu Panda!

PennYo is proud to present Yo Fu Panda, our 20th anniversary show! Get ready for a night filled with a cappella that you won't forget! You are in for a ride as we regale you with this legendary tale of destiny and friendship. Join Po and the Furious Five as we fulfil ancient prophecies and save the Valley of Peace from Tai Lung's attacks. The show will feature a set list of popular Chinese and English songs.

PART ONE

愛人錯過 Ai Ren Cuo Guo (Somewhere in Time) x Viva La Vida
- 告五人 AccuseFive x Coldplay
Soloists: Jacqueline Wu and Geshi Yeung
Arranged by Jacqueline Wu, Geshi Yeung, and Christopher Chien

愛人錯過 is a song by the Taiwanese band AccuseFive. Upon first listen, we were hooked by the first line: “我肯定在幾百年前就說過愛你” (I must have told you a hundred years ago that I love you). The context is simple: two people bumped into each other on the street, never apologized, and what could have blossomed into romance became an awkward encounter. We think this captures the often chaotic college life where we keep bumping into and drifting apart from people. The song's overall angst reminded us of the classic Coldplay song Viva La Vida, which has a similar longing for an outcome that could have become true in an alternate timeline. It's our first time arranging, and we hope you enjoy it!

我管你 Wo Guan Ni (I Don't Care) x Take Me To Church
- 華晨宇 Hua Chenyu x Hozier
Soloists: Suzanna Wang and Dante Lokitayakul
Arranged by Suzanna Wang

Take Me to Church, released by Hozier in 2013, was nothing short of a cultural reset, bringing with it many, if not too many middle school identity awakenings, dark Tumblr phases, extended stays on Wattpad, and more. Similarly, Hua Chenyu's 我管你 also directly challenges the many cultural and social norms that tend to stifle creative and individual expression within society. Together, the songs are a direct screw-you to all of the pressures, expectations, and everyday standards that we as people always feel the heavy need to succumb to. That being said, 我管你 is my mother's favorite song, and I can only hope that after hearing it, it will become yours too.

Mojito - 周杰倫 Jay Chou
Soloists: Justin Ng and Michael Tu
Arranged by Justin Ng and Michael Tu

Is it getting hot in here or is it just my Asian flush? Either way, Jay Chou's "Mojito" brings the heat with Latin rhythms and Chinese rhymes. The lyrics recount an ethanol-twined love story, but really serve to paint the picture of a care-free life in the tropics. So close your eyes, and prepare to be transported to the beaches of Havana, Cuban cigar in one hand, and mojito in the other.

快歌 Kuai Ge (Fast Song) x Survivor - 蕭亞軒 (Elva Hsiao) x Destiny's Child
Soloists: Natalie Kung and Sylvia Chen
Arranged by Christopher Chien, Natalie Kung, and Sylvia Chen

The arrangement is a celebration of 2000s music, calling back to popular girl group Destiny's Child and the influential Taiwanese pop singer 蕭亞軒 (Elva Hsiao). Survivor encourages us to drive out negativity and criticism by channeling our inner "survivors". 快歌 (Fast Song) tells us that singing and dancing have the ability to make us forget and experience strong positive emotions, and that we should embrace and relish it. Music is a powerful force in bringing about strength and happiness within ourselves. We hope that as you listen to our arrangement, you experience positive emotions too 手心的薔薇 Shou Xin De Qiang Wei (Beautiful) - 林俊傑 (JJ Lin), 鄧紫棋 G.E.M.

Soloists: Anna Zhang and Tommy Hu
Arranged by Anna Zhang

手心的薔薇 is a pop song by singers and song writers JJ Lin from Singapore and G.E.M. from China, first included in JJ Lin's 2014 album "New Earth". The song was inspired by JJ Lin's relationship with confidants who come to him for relationship for advice. He weaved the reciprocal consolation and encouragement between a girl and boy into the song and invited his good friend G.E.M. to record it with him.

法蘭西多士 Fa Lan Xi Duo Shi (Pain Toast) x Counting Stars
- 告五人 AccuseFive x OneRepublic
Soloists: Chardonay Needler and August Fu
Arranged by Christopher Chien

Lately, I've been, I've been losing sleep
Dreaming about the French toast we could eat
But baby, I've been, I've been praying hard
Said no more counting dollars
We'll go to PennYo concert, listen to August and Char
And their mashup of 法蘭西多士 with Counting Stars

Did you know what French toast is called in French? It's "pain perdu", or "lost bread". There are many ways you can understand 法蘭西多士: it may be about pain, or about loss, or even something as simple as a piece of French toast. Life's like that. Dadaist, nonsensical, and filled with good food. "Counting Stars" strikes a similarity with 法蘭西多士 not only melodically, but also in the idea that love at the end of the day goes back to something simple and naive: eating a piece of French Toast, or counting stars. Someone may know the price of everything but the value of nothing. "Say no more counting dollars, we'll be counting stars." Thanks for listening. :)

INTERMISSION

PART TWO

如果愛 Ru Guo Ai (If Love) x Sunday Morning - 方大同 Khalil Fong x Maroon 5
Senior Soloist: Eddie Huang
Arranged by Eddie Huang and Christopher Chien

Sunday Morning is a song by the popular American band Maroon 5 that was released in their debut album Songs About Jane (2002) and still remains one of their most iconic songs to date. Paired together with 如果愛 (If Love), a song released in Khalil Fong's album Orange Moon (2008), these two upbeat songs are both about how all a person really needs in life is someone to love. The catchy melodies and good-vibes of these two songs will definitely swing their way into your head for a while.

刻在我心底的名字 Ke Zai Wo Xin Di De Ming Zi (Your Name Engraved Herein)
- 盧廣仲 Crowd Lu
Senior Soloist: Daniel Lee
Arranged by Christopher Chien

Crowd Lu may not be nearly as handsome or talented as Eric Chou, but his sappy ballad 刻在我心底的名字 has nonetheless made it onto many a sadboi's sadboi playlist, and deservedly so. In it, he struggles with himself, and his memories of a lover who's forgotten their love for each other, while he is still unable to think of anyone but. Whether you're getting over the leaving of a friend, a significant other, an Amy Gutmann, or anyone else who's name is engraved in your heart, this song is sure to speak to you.

WEWE x still feel. - 告五人 AccuseFive x half alive
Senior Soloist: Christopher Chien
Arranged by Christopher Chien

"still feel." is about finding hope and humanity in even the darkest situations. Meanwhile, "WEWE" is about refusing to stay stagnant in life and telling nosy people to stay in their lane and worry about themselves first. Together, this mash-up works as a bit of a send-off to my time at Penn, and all the lessons I've learned in exercising self-agency and always moving forward, despite life's various obstacles and setbacks. It is also dedicated to my fellow Yos, especially us seniors - as we all eventually graduate and find our own separate paths, I wanted to thank you for inspiring me to be creative, be courageous, and (most importantly) be myself.

連名帶姓 Lian Ming Dai Xing (Full Name) - 張惠妹 A-Mei
Senior Soloist: Nicole Yeh
Arranged by Christopher Chien

連名帶姓 is about a person who had to let go of a lover. Even though time has passed and others have come by, A-mei discusses her inability to move on, so much as though she uses other people to try to replicate the love she had with this person. The very end of the song has the addition of Reflection from Mulan, as an Ode to the Pennyo 2020 and 2021 class who didn't get to perform due to the pandemic and to current Yos who I will dearly miss after graduating.

乾杯 Gan Bei (Cheers) x Have It All - 五月天 Mayday x Jason Mraz
Senior Soloist: Harrison Chen
Arranged by Jason Li

乾杯 (Cheers) is a pop song by Taiwanese band 五月天 (Mayday). Since its release a decade ago, the song became a sensational hit often associated with graduation and friendship. The lyrics incorporate themes of celebration, nostalgia, and moving on in the stages of life. The second song of the mashup is Jason Mraz's "Have It All". Mraz said this is a blessing disguised as a rap song that's meant to spread a hopeful message. The lyrics speak of life's limitless possibilities of friendship, intimacy, hope, togetherness, and affection, and it conveys the dream of living life to the fullest. The two songs come together to remember the past and celebrate the future to come.

入海 Ru Hai (To The Sea) x K歌之王 K Ge Zhi Wang (King of Karaoke)
- 毛不易 Mao Buyi x 陳奕迅 Eason Chan
Senior Soloist: Sophia Mark
Arranged by Christopher Chien

入海 is a song dedicated to warming the memories of graduation. The chorus has a line that says "Let us jump into the sea of people, each with its own wind and rain." symbolizing graduates facing society, life, and their future independently. However, graduation is the one ceremony that we all share and will go through together. "While there are still things left unsaid in our journey, we will find each other again in the sea of people." K歌之王 literally translates to the "King of Karaoke", a Cantonese classic that was written to deliberately challenge the singer. The song itself is an emotional roller coaster of how the singer wants to impress a person they care about with their voice, but the other party only thinks of them as a Karaoke King and nothing more. The song lyrics itself contains the titles of many famous karaoke songs.

MEET THE YO'S

Christopher Chien Po

Christopher 'Po' Chien is PennYo's cute, determined, and hard working senior Hero. As lovable as a panda, Chris' playful personality and passion for music has made him a leader in all the Yos' eyes. Initially, while being stuck in his boring life as a jazz band player (Ok Jazz is cool but you know), his low self-confidence stopped him from fulfilling his dream of being a great a cappella warrior. But when he joined PennYo, he became determined to learn a cappella the hard way, enduring off-pitch rehearsal sessions and constant rhythm clapping training in hopes of saving the Yos. When anointed as the Dragon Music Director, he learns that there is "no secret ingredient" in becoming a hero and gains the confidence to lead all of PennYo using his innate amazing music skills. His ultimate move is the "Wuxi Chest Rhythm Tap" that magically teaches all Yos the correct rhythm.

Nicole Yeh Viper

~Hiss Hiss~ Nicole "Master Viper" Yeh is here to save the day. Unlike all the other sly, Wharton snakes, Nicole studies PPE in the College and is one of the kindest and most compassionate members of the Yos. Just like Viper's fighting style, Nicole has a beautiful and flexible voice that can be both gentle and powerful at the same time. Her charming and sweet personality makes her quite popular and you can often find her socializing with friends or hanging with her cat at home (yes, a viper can have a pet cat). You wouldn't want to miss her final performance with PennYo when she fearlessly delivers her senior solo.

Eddie Huang Crane

The moment you've all been waiting for. You've heard him beatbox, you've seen him sing, you might even be a part of his fanclub. But now, for the first time ever, you can watch PennYo's most mysterious~ heart-throb, Eddie, portray the posed and elegant crane! In honor of his years of giving PennYo the sickest beats this side of Schuylkill, I've written some bars for him.

P to the N to the Y to the O
Eddie got bass man, Eddie got flow
Our songs are hype yeah this mans the key
His beats go harder than CIS160

Drum fills, hi hats all divine
In this concert, he's sure to shine
If you got feels though, don't be mistaken
Sorry ladies our beatboxer's taken

Daniel Lee Mantis

"Who am I to judge a warrior based on his size? I mean... look at me!" Tiny but fit, green but agile, Dan, Mantis, is strong in all aspects. Professor Dan's big brain is PennYo's most valuable asset as he bikes around campus with that SIG backpack and enlightens the group with his pitch sensitivity. As one of the real OG's, he is also experienced and ready to overcome any challenge. When Dan gets locked out of his house—no phone, no wallet, no nothing—he did not panic. With an empty stomach and a strong mind, Professor Dan managed to recall where the rest of the Yos are and joined them at Teado for dinner. Being calm in reality but feisty in Yo Fu Panda, Dan will impulsively whack whoever calls him "cute" and make those who judge him by the size "fear the bug"!

Sophia Mark Tigress

PennYo proudly presents to you our mighty Sophia “Tigress” Mark! Hailing from Hong Kong, Sophia is the queen of sad Chinese ballads. With her powerful belting and soulful delivery, her voice can make you miss the relationship you never had and reminisce about the lover you never met. If you don't see her performing at our gig (a rare occurrence since we LOVE having her as our soloist), you will probably find her savoring Mala Hot Pot, binging on anime, or destroying everyone else in Valorant. Having sung with PennYo for more than 3 years, Sophia will soon graduate with a degree in Bioengineering and a minor in Computer Science — as she goes on to becoming a successful engineer, we will surely miss our worthy K歌之王!

Natalie Kung Master Shifu

Natalie always tugs on everyone's heartstrings with her powerful rendition of “some people want it all, but I don't want nothing at all!” She is always a master at sending clear announcements and very friendly reminders that make people feel sorry for not complying with. She always brings pencils to rehearsals and helps other children Yos circle dynamics and change ‘das’ into ‘dos’. She always shows up with a beautifully-marked calendar and some complicated architecture assignments on her laptop. She is always willing to help out with everything... Yes, our Yining Natalie Kung, 龚逸宁, Nat, or 龚主席 (imagine this in Michael's voice) is PennYo's wonderful president, soprano, and asset. 龚主席, if we ain't got you!

Harrison Chen Monkey

Playing the role of Master Monkey in Yo Fu Panda, Harrison Chen is surely a monkey in character and out of it. Legend has it that he has been in PennYo for so long that Harrison “Monkey” Chen has mastered the ultimate secret of bass, fighting evil opponents by singing at the frequency of their hearts and making them explode in resonance. Outside of his commitment to singing and protecting Panda Village, he is a proud member of the Phi Psi fraternity. If you are interested in meeting Master Monkey in person, you may find him blessing his presence upon frat houses and karaokes on his off days.

Justin Ng Master Oogway

Justin “Master Oogway” Ng is just as wise and mighty as his character suggests. Although he is only 24.68% older than the average PennYo member, his wisdom and maturity is one hundred-fold, with a vocal range 19.73 semitones greater than the average turtle. When he's not dealing with the kicking and screaming of some of the younger PennYo members, you can find him bouldering and hiking on his journey towards kung fu mastery. As a candidate for a masters in computer science, he possesses not only brawn, but brain as well. To top it all off, Justin's tactical ingenuity is also second to none through years of training in the art of Mahjong and poker. While many desire this absolute unit of a man, it is to no one's surprise that he is indeed already taken.

Dante Lokitiyakul Commander Vachir

As our chief commander of the “inescapable” prison, Dante “Vachir” Lokitiyakul turned out to be incapable at his one job - preventing Tai Lung from escaping. But outside his day job, he has been very successful in his side hustles. During weekends he would perform his signature song JDA (簡單愛) in gigs to help PennYo make ends meet and steal hearts from the crowd. He is also the only person in PennYo to hold two Guinness Yo Records: singing Chinese songs without learning Chinese and managing to stay on pitch while the tenors beside him are going flat (or sharp?). To honour PennYo’s good old tradition, Dante will be performing JDA for us outside the theatre after the show as long as everyone venmo us two bucks and requests for Dante’s performance. On behalf of PennYo, we thank you for contributing to the preservation of our JDA cultural heritage.

Geshi Yeung Zeng

Don’t be fooled by his innocent face - he might act like Zeng the Messenger in his day-to-day life, but Geshi’s enthusiasm for partying increases exponentially with every shot he takes, tiring out even the most experienced party-goers in PennYo. Nothing wrong with that, although his heart may disagree. When he’s not mumbling about how he may have had too much or asking Chris exactly what our starting notes are, a wild Geshi can be spotted playing badminton (after rehearsal! every week!) or taking gorgeous photos of the wildlife he comes across on his hikes. He also has a 1080p HD directorial vision of all of our skits, which also happens to explain why he’s our production chair - a real good one too. Honestly, his bio-writer is very glad that PennYo looked back and didn’t let him slip by; the writer knows that his po-“WO”-ful voice and endless perfectionism will continue to take us to new heights.

Michael Tu Mr. Ping

His charm is his hair,
how it flows in the air
makes you wish you had locks like those too.

He’s got eyes sharp with focus,
as he’s walking down Locust
he’ll approach you right out of the blue.

He plays a good cello,
yet his tastes are not mellow
with a spice tolerance straight through the roof.

A goose he shall play
in our humble show today,
but don’t let his small role fool you!

With his voice, so sublime!
(and his duetter-in-crime)
he will snatch your heart straight from you.

But alas it is best
if his voice does the rest of the talking, so without further ado

He looks like Asian Thor
and he keeps saying naurr!
I present to you, the great Michael Tu.

Chardonnay Needler Tai Lung

All Chardonnay “Tai Lung” Needler has ever wanted is to be the Dragon YOdeler. Fueled by this dream, she developed her skills along all fronts, becoming the most talented student of the greatest voice coach in the Valley of Peace, Natalie “Shifu” Kung. When Chard wasn’t honing her deep alto voice, she was impressing all with her deep cultural and historical knowledge, and even vaster variety of tongues (Chinese, French, Hebrew??).

But alas, her freedom was taken away. Locked away for years, her already dangerous skillset developed a lethal edge. Not allowed to sing, she made do with cello and research on South African jazz and social movements from apartheid to the modern day (according to her impressive LinkedIn, which she had plenty of time to populate in prison). Well, she’s back for revenge, destiny, and French Yoast. Brace yourselves. She won’t let anything get in her way, even if it means knocking you out so hard, you’ll be Counting Stars.

Sylvia Chen Scroll

Sylvia, or Xiaonic, with her brownish yellowish carrot-in-braised-pork-belly-like hair, constant tendency to burst into laughter, to fight Michael Tu, is our wonderful and beloved Vice President. In the movie, as the dragon scroll, she inspired Po to realize his destiny as the Dragon Warrior, and as the VP, she has always been a motivation to the group (partly because she is the one who collect late fees - venmo @penny-a-cappella). This semester, she also coordinated the Every Summertime music video, in which people walked up and down stairs mindlessly like Super Mario and danced with no music in the background (it was fun time). Xiaonic copes with all things by finding joy in them, which I really respect. Maybe there's no secret ingredient in Mr. Ping's noodle, but Sylvia certainly is the secret ingredient of PennYo.

Suzanna Wang Tree/AMD

Her phone may be in black and white, but Suzanna "Tree/AMD" Wang never fails to bring color into PennYo (her hair is literally red). Walk down Locust expecting to see Suzzy doing her little arm spin dance, posting ultra wide angle forehead shots on instagram, or coffee-chatting with her millions of friends (all of whom made up 80% of our concert audience last semester). When PennYo is lucky enough to see her once every blue moon during rehearsals, we are once again reminded that we must sing ON the pitch, not on TOP of the pitch (did that make sense? We don't really know.) Look forward to Suzzy's rendition of Take Me To Church, where your spiritual beliefs may be shaken so hard you might even get a concussion ;)

Jacqueline Wu Young Tai Lung

Truthfully, there are very few things that connect Jackie "Young Tai-Lung" Wu to her Yo Fu Panda character. Instead of channeling all her energy into beating people up, she prefers spending her days reading fantasy novels and crocheting the cutest birthday presents ever for her fellow Yos (somebody pls put this girl on Etsy!!!). Her other hobbies include cooking radish cakes, changing her major and hair color every few months, and gossiping with her Shifu about all the things they miss about Hong Kong. There are some occasions where her inner angry/violent Tai-Lung persona will emerge, such as when she is chasing down the rest of PennYo for failing to meet her marketing deadlines. But where she really separates herself from Tai-Lung is by how sweet, loving, and loyal she is to her friends and family. A true ride-or-die and the heart of the alto section, she may not be trusted to carry the Dragon Scroll, but the future of PennYo is definitely in good hands with her!

August Fu Villager, Guard

August "Yuntong" Fu is nothing less than an enigma. From the mind-bogglingly low Bs (to the total lack of them on his transcript) to the casual knowledge of Chomskian syntax, he changes the Alicia Keys song from "some people WANT it all" to "some people HAVE it all." August is a tree of knowledge and embraces trees of all kinds... even on his computer desktop.

August is casually the biggest brains in all of PennYo, not just because he does upper-division math classes as a freshman, but because he's a gentleman. He's always there to help out, contribute, bear responsibility, carry bags, and carry PennYo. Wearing Montcler jackets because "a friend gave it to him" (not because he chases status), he exudes class as easily as he can sing "Survivor" without sounding like a zombie. Study on, but more importantly, keep exploring. This man of culture will be able to enjoy 西多士 from France if he wants.

Tommy Hu Villager, Guard

"Where's Tommy?"- a question commonly asked by Yos as this mysterious ghost of a man can seemingly never be found. Our beloved Tenor may have a gorgeous voice and kills it at karaoke, but still can't use his head voice and is addicted to flavored air. Even though he's always late, Tommy never fails to make the Yos laugh with some memorable statements that are better left unsaid. Our popular Tenor knows all the Chinese internationals and is known for his hype beast, overpriced outfits. Nonetheless, he continuously blesses the earth with his angelic voice and his sense of humor.

Anna Zhang Villager, Guard

Our beautiful, lovely, wonderful, and insanely talented AMD Anna is nothing short of absolutely perfect. Whether it's her impeccable makeup and meticulously drawn eyeliner, her bangs always being lined up so immaculately, her outfits so carefully planned out, to her absolutely beautiful drawings of the members of PennYo, her skillful arrangements, and more, she is always the epitome of everything you want to be. Zhang Muyun is always keeping up with the times, picking up on PennYo's swaggy slang, hitting us with constantly with the now iconic saying "da best." Learn what "da best" means when you listen to Anna sing - you are for sure to be blown away!

To the class of 2022:
Words cannot express how proud I am of your class ☺ you guys had the immense task of not only keeping PennYo alive during a 2.5-year global pandemic but also leading the group into a post-Covid world, and you've done both so, so amazingly. I still can't believe this show is your last ever PennYo show (时间都去哪儿了???) Because of your class, PennYo has changed so much for the better and I'm so honored to have been a part of your story. Break a leg tonight and just know that I'll always be cheering for you and the group no matter where in life we end up going.

- Jason

To my beloved seniors:

I can't believe the time has come for your senior solos! I remember you all joining as cute lil freshmen/sophs. I've been SO proud to watch you all grow musically & personally over the past few years. And I'm proud to call you all my friends. <3 Can't wait to celebrate PROPERLY with you all on Sat night!!! ;) - Carrot
